Do you know the difference between you and God? God doesn't believe he's you. In fact, although you are made in his image, he is very different from you. Having seen what God's people had done to the Amorites, "Moab was filled with dread" (Nu 22:2), so Balak, the Moabite king, sent for Balaam, a diviner with an international reputation. Following his comical, donkey incident (vv. 21-35), Balaam meets with Balak, ostensibly to curse the Israelites. After blessing them rather than cursing them (vv. 7-10), frustrated Balak persuades him to try again. This time around, the LORD tells Balaam, "Go back to Balak and give him this word" (v. 16), so Balaam delivers this message to the Moabite king: "Arise, Balak, and listen; hear me, son of Zippor. God is not human, that he should lie, not a human being, that he should change his mind. Does he speak and then not act? Does he promise and not fulfill?" (vv. 19). Balaam then goes on to bless Israel a second time (vv. 20-24). His words express profound truth regarding God. Unlike human beings, God does not lie, neither does he change his mind. Unlike human beings, he doesn't say one thing and do another, neither does he make empty promises that he has no intention of keeping. Unlike human beings, God, thankfully, is not fickle.

God has no choice but to change from anger to forgiveness when a sinner repents.

– John S. Feinberg

This Week's Core Competency

Trinity – I believe the God of the Bible is the only true God-Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

On God's attributes, one theologian writes: "In reflecting on all of God's wonderful perfections, it is reassuring to know that our lives are entrusted to such a God. Still, we would be greatly troubled if our magnificent king should lose or change some of those perfections. But Christians can rest assured that this will not happen, because in addition to all his other perfections, our God is unchanging" (John S. Feinberg, No One Like Him, Foundations of Evangelical Theology, 264).

Theologians call this divine attribute immutability, and a number of passages testify to it. In the Old Testament, comparing the heavens and the earth to God, the psalmist says: "They will perish, but you remain; they will all wear out like a garment. Like clothing you will change them, and they will be discarded. But you remain the same, and your years will never end" (Ps 102:26; cf., Heb 1:11-12). And the prophet Malachi quotes God saying: "I the LORD do not change. So you, the descendants of Jacob, are not destroyed (3:6). In the New Testament, James writes: "Every good and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of the heavenly lights, who does not change like shifting shadows" (1:17). In other places, immutability is associated in general with God's person, purposes, and promises.

But what about passages that suggest otherwise? For example, Exodus 32:14, "Then the LORD relented and did not bring on his people the disaster he had threatened," or as the NLT renders

cont. pg. 2
Psalm 102:23-28

23 In the course of my life he broke my strength; he cut short my days.
24 So I said:
    "Do not take me away, my God, in the midst of my days;
your years go on through all generations.
25 In the beginning you laid the foundations of the earth,
    and the heavens are the work of your hands.
26 They will perish, but you remain;
    they will all wear out like a garment.
Like clothing you will change them and they will be discarded.
27 But you remain the same,
    and your years will never end.
28 The children of your servants will live in your presence;
    their descendants will be established before you."

EXAMINE – what the passage says before you decide what it means.

* Underline "broke' and "cut short" in v. 23.
* Circle "you" and "your" in vv. 23-28.
* Bracket "In the beginning," "you remain," "you will change them," "you remain the same," and "your years will never end" in vv. 25-27.
* Box "but" indicating contrast in vv. 26, 27.
* Box "like" indicating comparison in v. 26.
* Double underline "children" and "descendants" in v. 28.
day 2

EXPLORE – the answer to these questions to better understand what the passage means.

Consult the explanation of the message and the notes to follow if you need help.

1. Verse 23 contains an implicit contrast between the Psalmist's life and the Lord's life (cf., v. 27). Explain it.

2. One commentator suggests there is a note of complaint in verse 24: "I am not permitted to live a full generation, but you continue through all generations." Explain why you agree or disagree.

3. Define the divine attribute eternity based solely on verse 25.

4. Explain the comparison in verse 26.

5. Define the divine attribute eternity based solely on verse 27.

6. Verses 25-27 clearly teach the eternity of God, but they also imply his immutability (he is unchanging). How so?

7. What if God were not eternal and immutable; what difference would it make to you?

8. Describe the relevance of the divine attribute eternity for God's people according to verse 28.

9. Discussion: Talk about your interest in theological matters like the attributes of God.
The superscription of Psalm 102 calls it "the prayer of an afflicted man . . . his lament before the Lord." The psalm preserves the complaint of an unnamed individual that apparently resulted from his involvement in a national disaster—the destruction of Jerusalem at the hands of Nebuchadnezzar (see 2Ch 36:15-19; cf. 2Ki 25:1-21; Jer 52:4-27). On the title of the psalm, the NIV Study Bible notes, "The title identifies only the life situation in which the prayer is to be used, and in accordance with vv. 1-11, 23-24 it designates the prayer as that of an individual. But vv. 12-22, 28 clearly indicate national involvement in the calamity. It may be that the distress suffered by the individual is the result of his sharing in a national disaster such as the exile—a suggestion supported by references to the restoration of Zion" (note 102 title, 892).

Psalm 102 can be divided into three parts following the psalmist's opening appeal for God to answer him quickly. The first part (vv. 3-11) describes his wretched state. His distress is so great that it has affected both his body and soul. His life has gone up in smoke so to speak. Physically, he's wasting away because he's too depressed to eat and as a result is nothing but skin and bones. Emotionally he's forlorn, alone among the ruins of the city and taunted by his enemies. They mention his name in their curses on others, saying, "May you become like . . . in his distress." Ashes of mourning and tears of sorrow have become his only food and drink. All of this because God in his wrath handed Jerusalem over to Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Babylonians (2Ch 36:17).

The second part (vv. 12-22) describes the Lord's matchless compassion and mercy. The King eternal will have compassion on Zion. One writer explains: "The Lord had decreed seventy years for Babylon's hegemony, and thereby it would fall. With the fall of Babylon, the 'time' ('the appointed time') of God's favor would begin the era of restoration . . . The new era is marked by forgiveness, renewal of the covenant, and the restoration of the people to the land. All this is in view when the psalmist hopes in the promises of the Lord" (Willem A. VanGemeren, "Psalms," in The Expositors Bible Commentary, 5:752). And when the Lord has compassion on Zion, the kings of the earth will revere him (v. 15).

The third part (vv. 23-28) returns to the psalmist's state. He asks that his life be extended, a request he then confidently anchors in God's eternity. In contrast to the creation destined to perish, the Creator forever remains the same. And because the eternal Lord does not change, his people's future is secure. They will live in his presence.

God's infinity in relation to time is the point of the divine attribute eternity. Theologians agree that God is eternal, although they debate his relationship to time. According to some, "God's eternity means he exists endlessly outside of time;" according to others, it means God existed always, i.e., "God never had a beginning, nor will he die, but his existence extends endlessly backwards and forwards through every moment of time" (Feinberg, No One Like Him, 255). While passages clearly speak of God's existence as endless, no passage speaks directly to the nature of that eternity, namely, whether it is temporal or atemporal. Certain passages teach God's endless existence in the past (Ps 93), while others teach his endless existence into the future (Ps 9:7). Psalm 102:25-28 teaches both.

The psalmist makes regular use of parallelism (cf., vv. 25, 27), contrast (vv. 26, 27), and comparison (v. 26). Commenting on the eloquence of verses 25-28, one expositor writes: "This is not only eloquence surpassing even that of Psalm 90: the range of thought leaves all our space-time landmarks for behind yet diminishes nothing of the significance of the present. This significance derives from God, who is committed eternally to his servants and their posterity—and to nothing else in creation, not even the universe itself" (Derek Kidner, Psalms 73-150, TOTC, 395). Believers today can "go to school" on this ancient psalm.
The Message of the Passage

Because God is eternal and immutable, you can cry out to him in a time of need, knowing you live your life in his presence.

Our desire is to not be merely hearers of the word, but doers of the word as James teaches in James 1:22.

What if God were not eternal and immutable; how would that impact your ability to cope with change in your life?

What if God were not eternal and immutable; how would that impact your prayer life?

What if God were not eternal and immutable; how would that impact your hope for the future?
Superscription

While this psalm is "the prayer of an afflicted man," the man's personal affliction is tied to the affliction of the Zion community (cf. vv. 10, 13, 16, 20), which suggests that it may have been written during the exile sometime after the destruction of Jerusalem. "Ps 102 is an Individual Lament in which the troubles of the afflicted man are related to, and set against the background of, the destruction of Jerusalem and its hoped-for restoration" (A. A. Anderson, The Book of Psalms: Psalms 73-150, NCBC, 704). "The references to the condition of Zion point to the period of the captivity as the time when the Psalm was composed. Although Rashi [a rabbinic commentator of the eleventh century] identifies the speaker with Israel, he is more probably an individual captive who details his wretched plight. But he pours out his soul as a member of the Israelite community and speaks for his people as well as himself" (A. Cohen, The Psalms, Soncino Books of the Bible, 328).

v. 23 broke . . . cut short

The psalmist returns to his personal lament in verses 3-11 and asks God to extend his life a little longer. "These words echo the lament of vv.3-11, where he again was occupied with the brevity, vanity, and anguish of life ('my days'; cf. vv.3, 11)" (VanGemeren, 5:754).

vv. 25-27 In the beginning . . .

"God’s permanence is demonstrated by first looking back to the past when the earth and the heavens were created and then by looking to the distant future. Here God's permanence transcends even that of creation, as illustrated by the analogy of clothing" (Craig C. Broyles, Psalms, NIBC, 393).

vv. 25-27 you

"Verses 25-27 are applied to Christ in Hebrews 1:10-12. The psalmist was addressing the eternal Lord, and the writer of Hebrews identified Jesus Christ as the eternal One, the Creator and Sustainer of the world. This is a strong affirmation of the deity of Jesus Christ" (Allen P. Ross, "Psalms" in The Bible Knowledge Commentary: Old Testament, 867).

v. 26 like

"The heavens and earth are often considered as symbolic of all that is permanent and enduring (cf. 78:69, 104:5, 119:90, 148:6; Ec. 1:4), but, in comparison with Yahweh, they are like a garment which is worn out sooner or later (a similar idea is found in Isa. 34:4, 51:6)" (Anderson, 711).

v. 28 children of

"God is unchanging (Mal. 3:6; Heb. 13:8) and eternal (His years will never end; cf. Ps 102:27). Therefore, He will be faithful to all generations (to the saints' children and to their descendants)" (Ross, 867).
Family Talk
Encouragement from one parent’s heart to another

Sending my firstborn off to school was one of the scariest things I've ever done. I wondered if I had prepared him enough to respect his teacher and follow the rules, navigate the lunchroom, and deal with bullies. What if he was "that weird kid" or the one that was always disruptive, bullied, behind, and every other thing we worry about as parents. I was pretty certain every other new kindergartener was already doing multiplication and reading on a fifth-grade level and I had failed miserably as a parent. I spent hours over the summer praying for the upcoming year, his safety for the school, friends, learning, and a thousand other things. The first day of school came, and launch . . . He was ridiculously excited; I was a crying mess! Thankfully I made it out of the building before I lost it. I remember turning him over to God and simply letting go. Times of great change can bring uncertainty, excitement, sadness, fear, hope and a million other emotions. There is no greater comfort than knowing our God is steadfast. He who created the heavens and earth also created my children and holds them in the palm of his hand. Parents, I know all the emotions you're going through during this season of change. What's more, he knows. Our eternal God knows you intimately and you can count on him. During this season, trust him to do amazing things in your family and with your child.

What Does The Bible Say
Weekly Verse: Read Psalm 102:23-28

1. What did God do in the beginning?
2. After the earth and heavens perish, who will remain?
3. Look up Psalm 102:12. Where is God and how long will He be there?

What Do You Think
How does knowing that God is eternal help you trust him in your circumstances today?

What R U Going To Do
Ask your parents to help you make a mobius strip. A mobius strip has no beginning or end. Share with your parents how this is like God.

Core Comp
Trinity - I believe the God of the Bible is the only true God - Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Memory Verse
James 1:17 - Every good and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of the heavenly lights, who does not change like shifting shadows.

KIDPIX COUPON
I memorized my verse _____, completed Scrolls _____, brought Bible _____, brought a friend _____.

Series Discipleship Challenge located in KidPix Store.

Child’s name _________________________  Grade ____ Parent’s signature _________________________

Earn 1 token by completing the PantegoKids Bible study and another token by reciting the memory verse.

Questions: Kids@pantego.org
10 CORE BELIEFS

Trinity 2 Corinthians 13:14
I believe the God of the Bible is the only true God - Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Salvation By Grace Ephesians 2:8-9
I believe a person comes into a right relationship with God by His grace, through faith in Jesus Christ.

Authority of the Bible 2 Timothy 3:16-17
I believe the Bible is the Word of God and has the right to command my belief and action.

Personal God Psalm 121:1-2
I believe God is involved in and cares about my daily life.

Identity in Christ John 1:12
I believe I am significant because of my position as a child of God.

Church Ephesians 4:15-16
I believe the church is God's primary way to accomplish His purposes on earth today.

Humanity John 3:16
I believe all people are loved by God and need Jesus Christ as their Savior.

Compassion Psalm 82:3-4
I believe God calls all Christians to show compassion to those in need.

Eternity John 14:1-4
I believe there is a heaven and a hell and that Jesus Christ is returning to judge the earth and to establish His eternal kingdom.

Stewardship 1 Timothy 6:17-19
I believe that everything I am or own belongs to God.

Biblical Community Acts 2:42-47
I fellowship with other Christians to accomplish God's purposes in my life, others' lives, and in the world.

Giving Away My Time Colossians 3:17
I give away my time to fulfill God's purposes.

Giving Away My Money 2 Corinthians 8:7
I give away my money to fulfill God's purposes.

Giving Away My Faith Ephesians 6:19-20
I give away my faith to fulfill God's purposes.

Giving Away My Life Romans 12:1
I give away my life to fulfill God's purposes.

10 CORE PRACTICES

Worship Psalm 95:1-7
I worship God for who He is and what He has done for me.

Prayer Psalm 66:16-20
I pray to God to know Him, to lay my request before Him and to find direction for my daily life.

Bible Study Hebrews 4:12
I read the Bible to know God, the truth, and to find direction for my daily life.

Single-mindedness Matthew 6:33
I focus on God and His priorities for my life.

Spiritual Gifts Romans 12:4-6
I know and use my spiritual gifts to accomplish God's purposes.

10 CORE VIRTUES

Joy John 15:11
I have inner contentment and purpose in spite of my circumstances.

Peace Philippians 4:6-7
I am free from anxiety because things are right between God, myself, and others.

Faithfulness Proverbs 3:3-4
I have established a good name with God and with others based on my long-term loyalty to those relationships.

Self-Control Titus 2:11-13
I have the power, through Christ, to control myself.

Humility Philippians 2:3, 4
I choose to esteem others above myself.

Love 1 John 4:10-12
I sacrificially and unconditionally love and forgive others.

Patience Proverbs 14:29
I take a long time to overheat and endure patiently under the unavoidable pressures of life.

Kindness/Goodness 1 Thess. 5:15
I choose to do the right things in my relationships with others.

Gentleness Philippians 4:5
I am thoughtful, considerate and calm in dealing with others.

Hope Hebrews 6:19-20
I can cope with the hardships of life and with death because of the hope I have in Jesus Christ.